

For Firefox 4.0 users, please take note of the following new feature:

In Firefox 4.0, the browser has a new feature to provide an additional option to check the box for <Prevent this page from creating additional dialogs> in the error message prompt dialog box for invalid data inputs. When this option is checked, the error message prompt dialog box for subsequent inputting of invalid data will not appear to remind you to enter valid data for successful transaction submission.

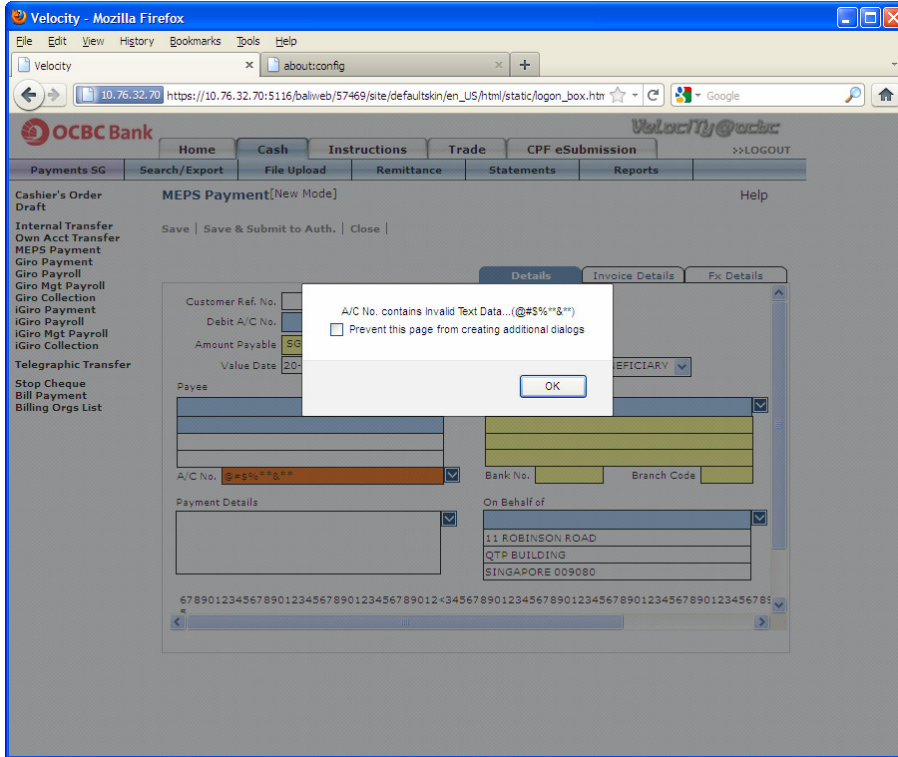

However, the error message prompt dialog box will appear again for invalid data when you logout, close the browser and re-login to submit a transaction.

Please refer to the following illustration on this new feature:

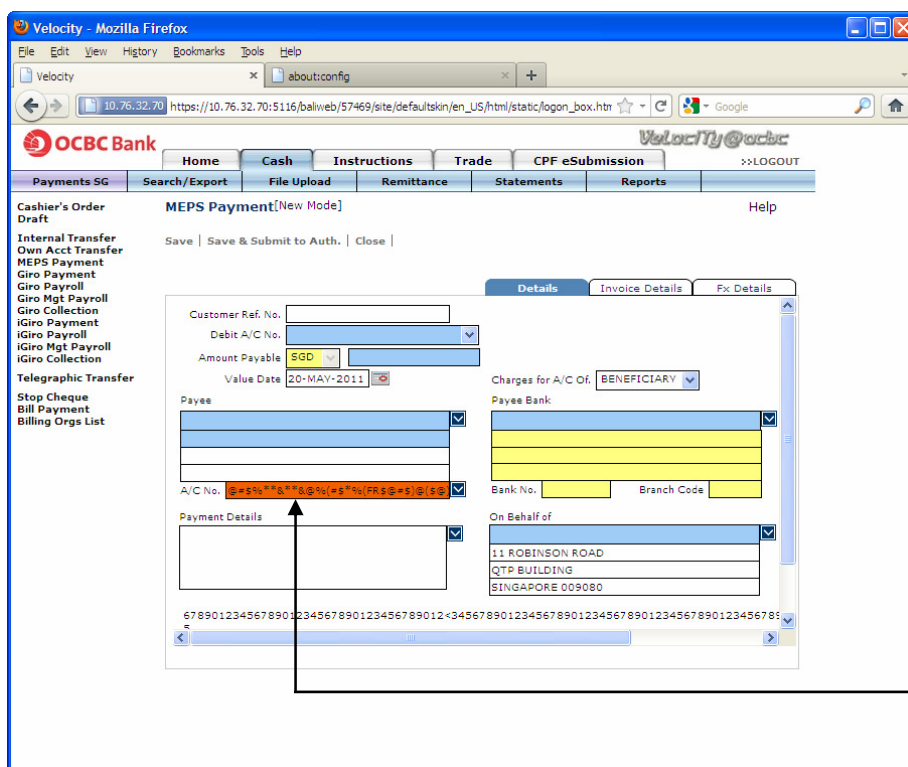

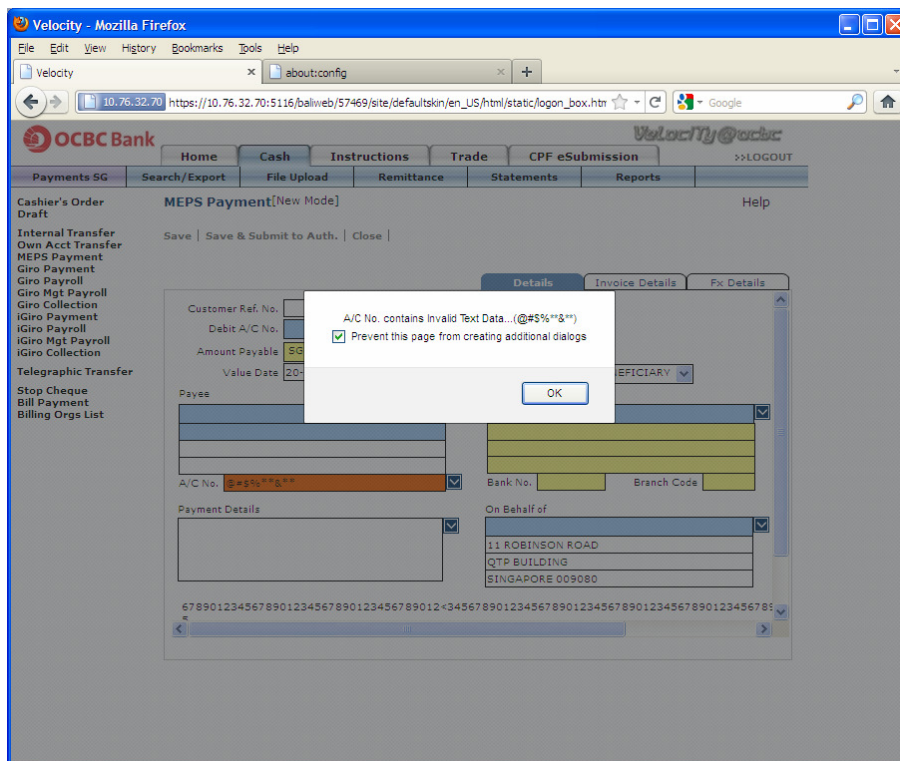

Step 1: If you enter invalid data in the field, an error message prompt dialog box will appear. Please click on <OK> and amend to valid data.

Step 2: If you continue to enter invalid data in the same field, an error message prompt with additional option to check <Prevent this page from creating additional dialogs> will appear.

Step 3: If you check on <Prevent this page from creating additional dialogs> in the error message prompt dialog box and click on <OK>, this reminder will not appear again even if you continue to enter invalid data in the same field.

You should enter valid data for successful transaction submission.